Dear

We are happy to know that Indian Dental Association (IDA) has developed web-based software which offers a digital system that provides authentic information of dental professionals. The software aims to ensure effective utilization and efficient deployment of dental personnel resources in the country along with concurrent monitoring.

However, NACO has already developed a real time online application called as Strategic Information Management System (SIMS) for capturing the data at the facility level which is available for add, view, modify & output reports for online feedback to the programme. SIMS is being used and accessed at the National / State / District level for evidence based action and optimum use of resources. Also other web based systems are developed and implemented across the country for serving the different divisions and the overall data needs to get the specific information for the programme on routine basis.

We thank you for showing the interest for development of software application. We will certainly inform regarding the same as and when desired by the programme.

With regards,

(Dr Neeraj Dhingra)
